TAX REDUCTION MADE POSSIBLE

Coolidge Foresees Surplus at End of Next Fiscal Year.

HE URGES DRASTIC ECONOMY

Would Have Consideration of Further Tax Reduction Legislation Deferred Until the Effect of Present Revenue Law Has Become More Apparent. Slashes Made by Budget in Governmental Expenditures.

Washington, Dec. 3.—A treasury surplus of $373,743,714 at the end of the next fiscal year is forecast by President Coolidge in his budget message to congress.

The budget of governmental expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1926, transmitted by the president, totaled $3,267,551,378, a decrease of $266,536,430 below estimates for the current fiscal year. Receipts were estimated at $3,641,295,092, an increase of $39,326,795, which, with the $67,884,489 surplus estimated at the end of the current fiscal year would bring the unusually large surplus forecast by Mr. Coolidge 19 months hence.

President Coolidge urged a program of drastic governmental economy to permit another cut in federal taxes. "I am for economy," the president declared. "If we continue the campaign for economy, we will have paved the way for further reduction in taxes." Coolidge, however, proposed that consideration of further tax reduction legislation be deferred until the effect of the present revenue law has become apparent.

The president said that for those things the government is required to do "we are fast reducing our expenditures to a minimum consistent with efficient service." He added:

"We have before us an estimated surplus of $67,000,000 for the current fiscal year and $373,000,000 for the next fiscal year. Shall we embark upon new projects involving expenditures which will prevent the accumulation of these expected surpluses, or shall we continue the campaign for economy? I am for economy."

Among major governmental agencies for which decreased expenditures were recommended were: Shipping board, emergency fleet corporation, the veterans' bureau, interest on the public debt, and the departments of commerce, interior, labor, navy, state, treasury and war.

Increases Reported.

Among other agencies for which increased expenditures were reported were: Government printing, federal board for vocational education, federal power commission, interstate commerce commission, tariff commission, the District of Columbia and the departments of agriculture, justice and the postoffice.

The budget estimates for national defense, including funds necessary for the military activities of the war and navy departments, were a decrease of $29,000,000.

The budget recommended $56,237,600 for rivers and harbors. Major items mentioned by the president included $10,500,000 for flood control on the Mississippi and Sacramento rivers and $3,040,390 to complete Dam No. 2 at Muscle Shoals.

The amount set aside for soldiers' bonus fund in 1926 was only $50,000,000. The president said veterans' applications had so far been below the number expected, and that if the applications increased unexpectedly a supplemental estimate could make the amount required.

In pointing out the necessity of appropriating $109,000,000 for federal aid to states, Coolidge voiced his vigorous disapproval of state aid. "I am convinced that the broadening of this field of activity is detrimental both to federal and state governments," he said.

The great increase for the department of agriculture was caused primarily by the necessity of increasing the amount appropriated for rural post roads from $13,000,000 to $80,000,000.

Battled With Storm.

New York, Dec. 3.—Fifteen passengers of the United States liner Leviathan were taken to hospitals suffering from injuries received during a two-day storm, when the big vessel docked here. R. H. Putnam of Chicago sustained a deep gash on his head from broken glass, when windows on the promenade deck were crashed by the seas. All the other injured were from New York city. Captain Hartley said it was the worst storm he had encountered.

ECONOMIES EFFECTED

Postal Service Shows Growth in the Last Year, Says New.

Washington, Dec. 3.—Postmaster General New in his annual report says the postal service has grown steadily in the last year in keeping with the country's business and has managed to effect economies without impairing efficiency. The postal revenues jumped 7.53 per cent over the previous year and amounted to $572,145,778, an increase of $40,120,853 over 1923. Audited expenditures to take care of the growing business increased only 5.4 per cent, their total having been $587,376,915. As a result the annual deficit amounted to only $14,428,137, a reduction of $9,601,327 from the deficit resulting from the previous year's operations.

The postmaster general makes no reference in his report to the question of increased salaries for postal employees.

CHEMIST MAKES REPORT ON SHEATSLEY CASE

Woman Dead Before Body Entered Furnace, Is Theory.

Columbus, Dec. 3.—Chemist R. F. Long's report of the results of experiments made with guinea pigs in the Sheatsley furnace tended to confirm the theory that Mrs. Addie Sheatsley was dead when the body entered the furnace of the parsonage in Bexley two weeks ago.

This theory was first drawn from a preliminary report made to County Prosecutor King by the chemist more than a week ago, after examination had failed to reveal the presence of carbon monoxide gas in the blood of Mrs. Sheatsley. Examination of blood of two guinea pigs, thrown while still alive upon the coals of the furnace in compliance with orders from the county prosecutor, showed the guinea pig blood to be "literally saturated with monoxide gas," Chemist Long told the prosecutor. Had Mrs. Sheatsley been alive when she entered the furnace, the scientists reason, there would have been carbon monoxide in her blood, as there was in that of the little animals.

The chemist stated that, in addition to recreating in the furnace conditions similar to those on the day of the tragedy, as described by the family, the scientists also waited the same length of time before examining the guinea pigs as elapsed between the discovery of the tragedy and the examination of the remnants of Mrs. Sheatsley's body.

Among those who attended the conference were Rev. C. V. Sheatsley, physicians, county and city officials. Coroner Murphy objected to the chemist's report, stating that while the tests made may be thorough, they are not dependable and without value since there is no collateral evidence.

Bandits Murder Eight Persons.

Berlin, Dec. 3.—Bandits armed with axes murdered seven persons at a lonely villa near Slegen, Germany, burned an eighth alive and fatally wounded the owner of the villa, a quarry director named Angerstein, when he arrived on the scene of the carnage. They fled into nearby woods without the loot they had come to obtain and posses are searching for them.

Zanesville, O., Dec. 3.—County Commissioner Samuel Frazier and his wife are confined at Granville, at the home of their daughter, because of injuries sustained in an auto accident near Alexandria.

CHANGES SOUGHT IN OHIO TAX ACTS

City Officials Draft Tentative Legislative Program.

CONFERENCE TO PASS UPON IT

Program, Among Other Matters, Calls For a Statute Providing For Minimum Operating Levy For Cities and Statewide Revaluation of Property—Proposals to Be Put Up to Officials of Ohio Municipalities.

Columbus, Dec. 3.—Committees appointed recently at a meeting of officials of Ohio municipalities met here last night and drafted a constitution and a legislative program in which financial relief for debt-ridden cities is sought.

The meeting of municipal officials last month was called by Mayor Clayton C. Townes of Cleveland. A general conference will be held in January, at which the legislative program will be presented for approval.

The tentative legislative program calls for a statute providing for a minimum operating levy for cities, thus placing them on an equal basis in this respect, with other political subdivisions. At present, if the county, state and school levies are high, the city's levy for police and fire departments, lights and service suffer. Amendments providing that when the people authorize bonds, they also vote to place the interest and sinking fund levies outside the 15-mill limitation, also are sought. This is a step towards home rule in taxation. Other proposals are: A statute providing that the bonded debt of self-supporting public utilities should be outside of all limitations to the extent that they are self-supporting, and statewide revaluation of property.

Additional legislative needs recommended by the committee on relief legislation, headed by Law Director S. J. Zielonka of Cincinnati, included enactment of a law providing for a mandatory June levy to be collected by all cities having deficiencies to furnish funds for operating expenses a second half of the year. If this is not favored by the solons, the committee urges provision enabling cities to hold special elections to enable them to collect a June levy. The relief legislation committee does not approve deficiency bonds, another relief scheme, Zielonka said. They merely defer the time of reckoning for an indebted city, he declared. Deficiency bonds were abolished by the Griswold act, but there has been some agitation for their re-establishment.

Mayor Thomas of Columbus headed a committee that called on Governor Donahy and obtained his support to a plan whereby the general assembly would enact legislation enabling cities to finance the conference if they so desire. At present, the law forbids use of municipal funds for such purposes. Purposes of the organization, as outlined by the constitution, are to provide a common basis for action on common municipal problems and to establish an information bureau available to all member cities to help each in solving its problems through experience of others.

MAY PLEAD GUILTY

Koretz, Promoter of Alleged Oil Swindle, to Face State Court.

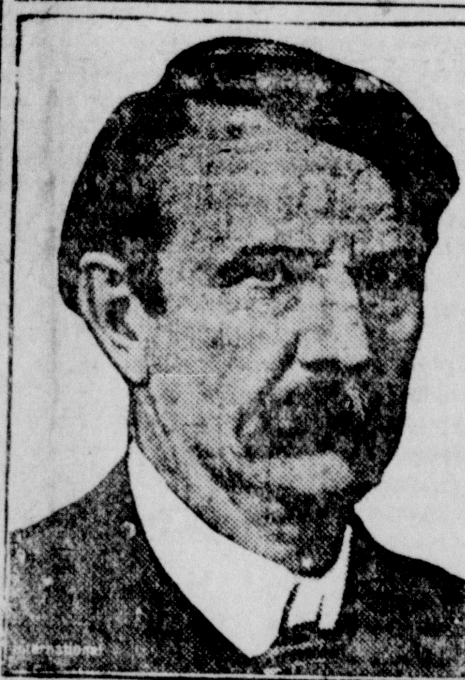

Chicago, Dec. 3.—According to State's Attorney Crowe, Leo Koretz has decided to plead guilty and take his medicine for his $2,000,000 oil swindle. Koretz will plead guilty to four indictments charging operation of a confidence game, carrying with them sentences of from one to 14 years, Crowe indicated. By pleading guilty in the state courts, Koretz will escape the federal government for the duration of the sentence. A federal capias for the arrest of Koretz on a charge of misuse of the mails to defraud is held over the confessed swindler's head. The prisoner is suffering from diabetes and feels he will never get out of jail alive, assistants to Crowe declared. Koretz's son, aged 15, is ill in a hospital here.

Wife Murder the Charge.

Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 3.—Charged with the murder of his wife, Dr. George T. Edwards, prominent physician of Fairfield, a suburb of Birmingham, is in jail here. Mrs. Edwards was chloroformed and then beaten to death with a hammer while she slept, it was said. Edwards, who was shot through the hand, claimed that the murder was committed by an unidentified intruder, who then tried to chloroform him, and that during a scuffle he was shot in the hand.

Twenty-five cents of this charge goes to the clerk issuing the license.

PLAN SPRUNG BY UNDERWOOD

Would Dispose of Muscle Shoals
Water Power Project.

SUBSTITUTE FOR NORRIS BILL

Alabama Senator's Measure Would Lease the Project to Private Citizens Before July 1 Next, and If Not Leased by That Date the Government Would Operate the Plant. Second Deficiency Bill Passed.

Washington, Dec. 3.—Senator Underwood (Dem., Ala.) offered a new plan in the senate for disposition of the Muscle Shoals water power project.

The Underwood measure is said to be a substitute for the pending government-ownership proposal fostered by Senator Norris (Rep., Neb.). The bill was drafted by Underwood after consultation with southern and western senators and he will endeavor to press it to a vote in the upper house.

The bill provides for lease of the project to private citizens before July 1, 1925, under specified conditions. If not leased by then, the government would undertake government operation of the properties. Private lessees could be bound to produce a minimum of 40,000 tons of nitrate within four years and subject themselves to terms under which surplus power may be sold. The government, if it took over the project, would operate through the "Muscle Shoals corporation," appointed by the president under the same conditions provided or private operation.

Senator Norris and Underwood reached an agreement to keep the Muscle Shoals project before the senate until disposed of.

The senate adopted practically without objection the second deficiency appropriation bill, providing for the appropriation of $186,000,000 from the treasury for the soldier bonus, the scrapping of naval ships under the disarmament treaty, the payment of the 25 per cent tax reduction refunds and the promotion of irrigation projects in the west. The action was taken in 15 minutes almost without debate. It was the first measure to be finally acted upon at this session and had remained on the calendar since the last session, when a one-man filibuster by Senator Pittman of Nevada prevented its adoption.

A total of $238,000,000, or $31,000,000 less than the amount made available last year, was carried in the interior department supply bill as reported to the house. It is the first of the appropriation bills to receive committee approval and its figures were well under the budget estimates. The bill carries $199,095,000 for the pension office; $11,883,270 for the bureau of Indian affairs; $8,943,000 for the reclamation bureau; $3,187,409 for the national park service; $2,801,600 for the patent office; $2,583,590 for the general land office; $1,908,637 for government in the territories and the Alaska railroad; $1,881,560 for the bureau of mines; $1,637,760 for the geological bureau, and $794,495 for the bureau of education.

PUBLISHERS WIN

Demurrer in Income Tax Case Sustained by Federal Court.

Kansas City, Dec. 3.—Federal Judge Reeves sustained the demurrer filed by defendants in the government's case against the Kansas City Journal-Post, growing out of publication of income tax payments.

Walter S. Dickey, owner, and Ralph Ellis, managing editor of the newspaper, were indicted by a federal grand jury after the income tax list had been published in the paper. They are at liberty on $1,000 bond each. Judge Reeves held the indictments, which charged illegal publication of income tax payments, violated the first amendment to the constitution of the United States, guaranteeing freedom of speech and of the press. The ruling means the case will not go to trial before Judge Reeves. Government attorneys are expected to carry the case to the United States supreme court for a final decision.

Washington, Dec. 3.—Federal Judge Learned Hand of the Southern district of New York was nominated by President Coolidge to be United States circuit judge, Second district.

Dies of Burns.

Cincinnati, Dec. 3.—Mrs. Mary McGrath, 90, died from accidental burns. On the night of Nov. 21, when she was in bed, sparks from an open grate fire ignited the bed clothes.

SUPERVISOR RESIGNS

Roosevelt Game Preserve May Be Closed For Period of Two Years.

Columbus, Dec. 3.—Dent O. Thompson, chief of the fish and game division of the department of agriculture, announced the resignation of Frank Vorhees of Portsmouth as supervisor of the Roosevelt hunting grounds, in the southern part of the state. Vorhees also resigned as game supervisor of Scioto county. The Roosevelt preserve was purchased and opened in 1922, with the understanding that it was to be opened to the public at the end of five years for hunting purposes. Thousands of dollars have been put into the preserve with comparatively few results shown, Thompson said. Vermin, he declared, killed pheasants with which the tract was stocked, and recently it was reported that several deer had died. Possibility of closing the preserve for a period of two years was intimated as one course which might be pursued.

Youths Must Die.

Columbia, S. C., Dec. 3.—Mortimer N. King and Frank Harrell must die for the murder of Major Samuel H. McCleary of the United States army. Final hope of the youthful slayers of the army officer for executive clemency faded following formal announcement by Governor Thomas McLeod that he would not interfere with the sentence of the court. Major McCleary was robbed and slain on a lonely road after giving King and Harrell a "lift" in his automobile.

SENTENCES COMMUTED

Governor Donahy Grants Pardons to Two Prisoners.

Columbus, Dec. 3.—Sentences of two penitentiary prisoners, one serving life for second degree murder and the other a one to five-year sentence for manufacturing liquor, were commuted by Governor Donahy. George A. Hile, 49, of Cincinnati, was granted his pardon after serving seven years for the alleged killing of George Hester in a saloon brawl in 1915. Hile's son maintained he was the one who shot Hester. The other commutation affected Vernon D. Lynn of Wayne county, received at the penitentiary Feb. 5, 1924, for manufacture of liquor. The trial judge, in a letter recommending his release, said the sentence was unusually severe, but the law did not permit him to mitigate it. The prosecutor and the board of clemency also recommended that the man be freed, as his family is in want.

WITH HER TWIN BABES

Invalid Mother Leaps From Her Third Story Window.

New York, Dec. 3.—Holding her three-week-old twin boys in her arms, Mrs. Bessie Katz, 29, an invalid, leaped from a third floor apartment here to the paved courtyard below. Jerome, one of the twins, was killed, and Stanley, the other, and Mrs. Katz are dying in a hospital. Harry Katz, the woman's husband, was in another room of the apartment playing with his 9-year-old daughter and was not aware of the tragedy until neighbors informed him. Katz said his wife had been nervous since her return from the hospital.

Black Walnut Is Quite Profitable

Tree Is Worthy of Extensive Planting in Waste Places on Any Farm.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Because of the high quality and beauty of its timber and its resistance to decay, the food value and popularity of its nuts, and the charm of the tree from an ornamental standpoint, the black walnut challenges attention as a tree worthy of extensive planting in waste places, according to Farmers' Bulletin No. 1392 just published by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Detailed information is given in this bulletin, "Black Walnut for Timber and Nuts," regarding planting and the best growing conditions, and the care of the black walnut for most satisfactory results in growing it primarily for either timber, nuts, or as an ornamental.

Trees Need More Room.
In earlier years it was deemed best to grow the black walnut in close plantations. As a consequence the increase in diameter was slow and the annual rings narrow. Today the market demand in walnut lumber is for wider rings giving an attractive grain. That means the trees must be given room to make more rapid growth than when close together, and it also means earlier and larger crops of nuts.

Black walnut grows best in fertile, moist, well-drained soil under average conditions of temperature and moisture and does not thrive in the extreme North or South, nor at high elevations, nor in arid, alkaline, wet or acid soils. Its commercial range is given as parts of the Ohio, Mississippi, and Missouri River valleys covering portions of the state of Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

Grow in Waste Places.
It is not recommended to grow the black walnut as a major farm crop on extensive areas of good land, because it cannot compete in profits with other farm crops. But it is urged to plant this tree in those neglected or waste areas of good soil in fence corners, along fence rows or stream banks, on hilly or rough places, in ravines, and in rocky outcroppings in fields and pastures where weeds or inferior species now grow. In such places the black walnut in the regions where it thrives should be a good investment.

Considerable Slaughter of Beef on Many Farms

In spite of the great concentration of the slaughtering and packing of meat animals by commercial concerns, there is still considerable slaughtering on the farms. Because of the demand for information regarding the best methods of killing beefs and handling the meat, the United States Department of Agriculture has prepared Farmers' Bulletin 1415, Beef on the Farm—Slaughtering, Cutting, Curing. This bulletin, prepared by W. H. Black and E. W. McComas of the bureau of animal industry, is illustrated with 50 photographs, the authors believing that many of the stages in handling carcasses can be shown best by pictures.

In addition to the photographs, there is considerable text material describing the various stages from the selection of cattle for slaughter up to the shipping of farm meat in interstate commerce. There is detailed information on cutting up the carcasses, curing beef, preparing beef products, handling the hide, and a special section on slaughtering calves.

Copies of the bulletin may be had free, as long as the supply lasts, by addressing the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Oats, Richer Than Corn, Favored for Dairy Feed

Oats will be more largely fed this year than usual. Their abundance and the shortage of corn will induce farmers to depend more than usual upon their supply of oats to compound the dairy ration.

Oats are richer in protein content than corn. For this reason they make an excellent dairy feed. Best results are obtained when they are ground or crushed. The bulky nature of this grain, together with their richer protein content, admirably fits them for mixing with other feeds. Because of these desirable characteristics, and the fact that oat prices are on a lower parity than most other grains, farmers should not sell too closely of the grain, especially dairymen who desire to keep up a maximum flow of milk.

Dairymen Are Careless in Cooling Products

This is the season of the year when milk and cream producers become careless in the cooling of their product after milking or separation. The cool nights lead one to believe that nature will take care of the cooling operation. Milk and cream, however, cool very slowly in air or in water when not stirred. The center of the can remains warm for a number of hours, allowing opportunity for rapid bacterial development. The result is milk sours quickly and cream is second grade when delivered to the creamery.

Sick Poultry Can Be Cured Any Season of the Year.

Circleville, O., R. F. D. 6, September 29, 1924.

Mrs. Edward H. Wardell, winner of Grand Sweep Stakes for best dozen eggs in show in Ohio State university, held February, 1924, says:

Mr. F. L. Fickardt, Dear Sir:—

I am only too glad to recommend Fickardt's Roup and Cholera Drops to any one interested in poultry, as the best preventative for contagious diseases I know of, on the market today. About three years ago cholera broke out in my flock of young chickens, which were then about six weeks old, and weighing about 1½ pounds. There were 175 birds in this flock. As soon as I discovered they were sick I began treating them according to instructions of a specialist. I only lost eleven out of 175, and checked the disease in about three days. At that time Fickardt's Roup and Cholera Drops was recommended to me as a wonderful medicine to be used as a preventive of contagious diseases. At that time I began using the Drops and have not had an epidemic since, altho I lose one or two now and then from common causes such as apoplexy, egg-bound, etc. I begin giving it to the chicks when they are quite young and from that time on they are never without it. At the present time I am shipping two cases of eggs a week and have been for the last six months, from my flock of 180 hens and I attribute this high egg production to the healthy condition of my flock. I always grade and candle my eggs and I have attained such a degree of perfection that I have less than three per cent of my eggs that do not run over the specified weight of 24 ounces to the dozen. Sincerely,

Mrs. Edward H. Wardell.

Fickardt's Roup and Cholera Drops Is a remedy for Roup, Cholera, egg-binding, Canker, Limber neck, Chickenpox, White Diarrhoea, Indigestion and bowel complaints. Price 50 cents.

Let Action Follow Thought.
A philosopher once said that there is no value to any thought, no matter how fine or noble, unless it is transformed into action. If you feel uplifted by beautiful music, do something that will tally with your mood, and then the music has been worth while. If you read something that is inspiring, at once do something, no matter how small, that is a little different and a little superior to your routine. The theory applies with equal truth to the reading of books as more than a pastime.—Chicago American.

Sunday School Lesson

Lesson for December 7

THE MAN BORN BLIND

LESSON TEXT—John 9:1-41.
GOLDEN TEXT—One thing I know that whereas I was blind now I see.—John 9:25.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Opens a Blind Man's Eyes.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Heals a Man Who Is Blind.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Loyalty to Our Savior.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Difficulties and Rewards of Confessing Christ.

I. Working the Works of God While It Is Day (vv. 1-5).

1. The Disciples' Problem (vv. 1, 2). In their minds all affliction, negative and positive, was God's retribution for sin. Therefore they argued that this man's blindness proved sin. They recognized, too, that the effect of sin is sometimes hereditary. This they no doubt inferred from the second commandment (Ex. 20:5). The implication is that they held the view that men have a pre-existence, and that suffering in this life may be the result of sins committed in that pre-existent state.

2. The Lord's Answer (vv. 3-5). The Lord avers that in this case there is neither sin on the man's part, nor that of his parents, but that it was an occasion for the display of the works of God, and that He had come to execute this task while it is day, because the night comes when no man can work.

II. The Man's Eyes Opened (vv. 6, 7).

Observe that the means used in this miracle were little less than foolish in themselves. How illy adapted naturally would a plaster of mud be to apply to the eye, the most delicate and sensitive of all the organs of the body. What is more to be avoided than sand in touch with the eye? The object must have been to teach this man the utter inadequacy of the means to the accomplishment of the end that he might be caused to look from the means to the one who used them, that he might be convinced that the power was of God. Then, too, the washing in the pool would teach him the absolute necessity of immediate and explicit obedience in order to enjoy God's blessings.

III. The Man's Testimony (vv. 18-38).

In his testimony we have a fine example of the development of faith. The opening of this man's eyes aroused inquiry among his neighbors. When a man's spiritual eyes are opened there will be a stir among his friends.

1. He testifies to his personal identity (v. 9). This was very easy. His self-consciousness enabled him to know that he was the same man who was born blind.

2. He testifies as to how it was done (vv. 11, 15). So definite was his experience that he was able to tell just how it was done.

3. He testifies that the One who opened his eyes was a prophet (v. 17).

4. He testifies that this healer was no doubt sent of God (vv. 30-35), and is the greatest worker of miracles since the world began.

5. Finally, he worships Him as the Son of God.

IV. The Results of His Confession.

1. As to the people, they were divided in sentiment. Some believed He was from God because of His works; others that He was a sinner because He did His work on the Sabbath day.

2. As to the man, they cast him out. But being cast out by men he found himself in the arms of Jesus. He is led on to a deeper faith. He first saw Him as a miracle worker, then as a prophet, and finally as the Son of God, and when he perceived Him to be the Son of God he worshipped Him.

The whole lesson may be viewed from three angles:

1. As an acted parable of the life that issues in faith in Christ, an illustration of the spiritual sphere in terms of the physical sphere.

2. Testimony to the Deity of our Lord. This testimony is threefold:

(a) The miracle itself, an unheard-of work, that a man born blind should receive his sight; (b) the unwilling admissions of the enemies themselves who made a public and official investigation; (c) the testimony of the man himself and that of his parents.

3. An illuminating example of faith's development.

True Freedom

True freedom has to do with the spiritual part of man, with that principle in him through which he is related to God. That can be free even though the body be loaded with chains. It was so with St. Paul, as with all other good and great men.

Faith

Faith in the holiness of God is the first uplifting force in religion. There is hope for the greatest sinner who can see the immaculate purity of God in contrast with his own sins. The vision of the sinless One reveals to us the sinfulness of our sins.—Christian Standard.

In the Love of God

You must grow in the love of God by means of the Holy Spirit and His branches.

CROSS WORD PUZZLE.

"When is The Gazette going to begin printing cross-word puzzles?" asks Mrs. Minnie Sharkley, an old and valued subscriber from Topeka.

The answer is simple. One fine day in the northeast part of town, there will be a funeral. The people will attend it gladly, and it will fill a long-felt want in this town. It is one of the events, like the coming of the new Santa Fe shops, whose deferring has made the heart sick in Emporia. But sooner or later it will come. When the folks drive back from the cemetery they will say, "Now that the old bluffer is gone, we can have the kind of a town we like." And they will go ahead and make the kind of a town they always have wanted.

Well, maybe the day after the funeral, there will be a cross-word puzzle in The Gazette; but not before.—Emporia Gazette.

Relic Queerly Preserved.

A steel ladle seven inches long, supposed to have been used by Indians in melting lead for bullets many years ago, was found imbedded in the heart of a red oak tree sawed up for firewood at South Altoona, Pa. Rings on the tree indicate it was more than one hundred years old. The ladle, made of the finest charcoal steel, is believed to have been driven into the tree when it was a sapling.

AMUSEMENTS

Pola—Paris—Lubitsch!
"Montmartre" has all three—and more. Pola Negri's latest Paramount picture, which was shown for the first time at the Met theater yesterday is a story of the Latin Quarter of the French capital, directed by the man who made "The Marriage Circle," etc. Ernest Lubitsch.

For those who remember the Pola of "Passion" and her other continental triumphs, we'll say that the popular star first made her famous. You have to go way back to the days of "Passion," etc., to find anything that even begins to measure up to "Montmartre." It has something for everyone—love, humor, pathos, thrills, big scenes and all the rest. It is our humble opinion, all due respect to her earlier American made picture, that "Montmartre" is about the best thing that Pola Negri has one for the screen to date.

We've been promised a picture like "Montmartre" for a long time, a picture in which Pola would again be seen in the type of character the public likes to see her.

"TWISTED MUG SOCIETY"
FOR WAR-SCARRED FACESHeroes Who Were Disfigured by Shells Form Organization in France.

Paris.—For a fraternal organization to exist under the incorporated name of the "Twisted Mug society," composed entirely of men with ugly and warped faces, might seem humorous if it were not for the fact of its war association. With a large and vigorous personnel, which is not, fortunately, in any danger of increasing unless another war intrudes itself upon the scarred soil of France, the Twisted Mug society is as honored an organization as any that exists in France today.

And well it might be. Every member of it has an artificial nose or jaw, or is so disfigured by war wounds and operations as to make his face a pitiful caricature of the human countenance. Colonel Picot, as brave and popular a soldier as ever lived, is president. He possesses but one eye, an aluminum chin and a mushroom nose. His cheeks are lined with scars and his eyelids devoid of lashes, yet nobody is prouder of his appearance than Colonel Picot—unless it is, perhaps, his children.

Marshal Petain, who is honorary president of the Twisted Mugs, is the only person affiliated with the society who can boast of resemblance to an ordinary human being. The rest are like Colonel Picot and many of them much worse. One veteran has obtained the record of having his face operated upon 62 times since the war; none of them less than five times. Five of the ugliest—and needless to say the proudest—were present at Versailles when the peace treaty was signed as a special and honored guard for M. Clemenceau and as a special and honored reminder for M. Brockdorff-Rantzau and his colleagues that there had been a war in which Germany was defeated.

That, however, was before the Twisted Mug society came into being. Now its members are hoping to build a special hospital and home for themselves, where the difficult treatment necessary may be obtained and where they always can be together, such of them as are still celibate, in a spot of honored serenity.

They are possibly the only men in the world who take pride in their ugliness, the only men to whom ugliness is a mark of the greater respect.

One of Two Survivors

New "Twilight Sleep"
Voids Toxic Danger

New York.—A new and safer form of "twilight sleep" is being used at the lying-in hospital under the direction of Dr. James T. Gwathmey. It was stated at the convention of the Eastern Society of Anesthetists.

Within a few months, the announcement said, 1,000 babies have been brought into the world without pain to the mother or danger of poisoning the child, which was the cause of the "blue babies" under the first method of using "twilight sleep."

Doctor Gwathmey's discovery consists in the use of scopalamine and morphine in a solution of epsom salts. The epsom salts make it possible to obtain the same degree of immunity from pain with one-fourth to one-sixth the quantity of scopalamine, thus reducing the danger of toxic effects on the child. The treatment is completed with ether and oil, which prolongs unconsciousness as long as is necessary.

Parrot Speaks Greek

Sacramento.—While employees of the state board of control were gathering for work the other day a pretty parrot flew into the board room through an open window. It perched itself on the back of a chair and steadfastly refused to answer a question, even when solicited with a cracker. Finally George Kelaydis, a Greek restaurant owner, appeared and he capitulated to claim the bird, and it was revealed that the bird does not understand the English language but speaks Greek only.

ERIE BARGE
CANAL ROUTEAshtabula-Pittsburg Location Seems to be Favored One in Report.

Advocates of Central Ohio Waterway
Will Not Abandon Efforts—Congressman Burton Outlines Its Many Advantages.

The Pittsburg-Youngstown-Ashtabula route for the Ohio and Erie barge canal may be favored over the local one according to Washington dispatches, but the end of the fight is not yet in sight. The Washington report follows:

Several years may elapse before the first spadeful of earth is turned for a canal to connect the Ohio river with Lake Erie, even if the army engineers make known the result of their survey of the four suggested routes during the present winter.

The engineer's report is expected to carry a recommendation for one of the four routes in addition to complete data, including probable cost, on all of them. It is unlikely that proponents of the other three routes will permit the adoption by congress of that recommended by the engineers without a struggle and this will be the first obstacle to be surmounted in actually getting the canal underway.

Indications available at present are that the engineer's report is more likely to favor the Pittsburg-Youngstown-Ashtabula canal route than any of the other three, because of its shorter length. This will mean that advocates of a ditch connecting Cincinnati and Toledo, Sandusky and Portsmouth or Cleveland and Bellaire will demand a hearing before the House Rivers and Harbors committee to present the relative merits of those routes in opposition to the favored one.

After the committee has definitely decided on one of these routes, a bill must pass both houses and be signed by the president approving the construction of the canal ditch. This measure can carry no appropriation for the commencement of work so that after its passage more time must elapse before any money becomes available.

Money for river, harbor and canal projects previously approved by congress is appropriated by the river and harbor section of the annual army appropriation bill. Any new project after approval must wait until the consideration of this bill for the first installment of funds necessary to accomplish its beginning.

The 1926 army appropriation bill, carrying $50,000,000 for projects already passed on by the Rivers and Harbors committee but not yet passed upon by congress or the president, will come before the house in January, according to present schedule.

If congress prior to that date rejects the program put up to it by the Rivers and Harbors committee, the appropriation for projects contained therein will likewise fail. No consideration has yet been given the actual proposition of building a Lake Erie-Ohio river canal by the committee and it is not included in the $50,000,000 list.

After the new army bill passes congress no further appropriations for waterway developments will be considered until early in 1926. Ohio members of congress doubt that they will have been able to gain congressional approval for a canal thru their state by that time, so it is believed that it will be at least 1927 before any funds for the Ohio River-Lake Erie ditch can be obtained.

This delay will not deter Ohioans who are immediately interested in construction of such a valuable waterway from continuing to push it upon every possible occasion. In urging its adoption before either the committee or the house, Representative Theodore E. Burton, of Cleveland, former chairman of the House Rivers and Harbors committee, will probably outline the canal's advantage, regardless of the route it is to follow. Representative Burton is looked upon as one of the best informed members in either house on waterway matters.—Scioto Gazette.

Power for Good and Evil.

Into the hands of every individual is given a marvelous power for good or for evil—the silent, unconscious, unseen influence of his life. This is simply the constant radiation of what a man really is, not what he pretends to be. Life is a state of constant radiation and absorption; to exist is to radiate; to exist is to be the recipient of radiations.

SHOPLIFTERS

Chamber of Commerce Has Interesting
Meeting Tuesday Night

The meeting of the chamber of commerce Tuesday evening was well attended. Greater interest is being taken by the business men in the work of this body. President Sensenbrenner announced that if you have any kicks you wish to have aired, bring them up and the wrinkles will be ironed out.

Mack E. Noggle, cashier of the Third National bank, made the talk of the evening. He said that business is looking brighter and the prospects are good for a resumption of business that will exceed the pre-war times.

Mr. Sensenbrenner and Mr. J. D. Hummel related stories of shoplifting given them by the experience of W. E. Crist. Thomas F. Jeffries also gave some interesting notes on his experience with shoplifters, especially at this season of the year. Merchants lose thousands of dollars yearly by petty thieving and the business men should form an association and protect themselves.

Miss Elizabeth Keen, one of the instructors of Caney Creek Centers at Pippa Pass, Kentucky, who is here in the interest of the mountain children soliciting aid for their education, was given a few moment's time to present her proposition. In the space of the little time allotted her, Miss Keen gave a most graphic description of the conditions existing in the mountains of Kentucky and her talk was most interesting. This community has received some aid from this city and they will receive more.

Miss Keen is a college graduate and is making a life study of the mountain children and is devoting her sole time to further their education.

BUSINESS MEETING.

The regular meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club was held last evening at Memorial hall in the Post room, Mrs. Graham, the president, presiding. After minutes were read and the report from the secretary was heard, Miss Keen, of the Caney Creek Community Center, gave a short address which was much appreciated as it was very interesting.

The club was unanimous in its approval of the way Mr. Thornton is whipping their cast for the play "Marcheta" into shape and all the committees reported success in their work.

There is no doubt but that Circleville will feel kindly towards this club after they have witnessed this production at the Grand theater on December 11 and 12.

FRENCH CAPITAL SEEKS

CURE FOR MARRIED ILLS.

Some conclude easy divorce and even polygamy may solve the problem. But we here in the good old U. S., have no such worries, thanks to Reno where things are so simple and Judge Ben Lindsey who is making bad boys good. But speaking of good boys, there are several playing in "Marcheta" who have earned that reputation thru their work.

The show is a scream. If you don't believe it secure a ticket from some member of the B. & P. W. club who are sponsoring the production and be convinced. 3dec11.

IT TAKES A HEAP OF LIVIN'

TO MAKE A HOUSE A HOME.

So Edgar Guest says and it takes a heap of practice to make an amateur a professional, but that is what "Ted" Thornton, of the Harrington Adams Producing Co., claims he has done to several of our own home-town folks.

The cast for "Marcheta," composed of 150 members, is working daily and the results are very gratifying. Grand theater December 11 and 12. 3dec11.

HANGS DOG DAILY TO OUST SPIRITS

Canadian Police Discover Savage Practices of Indians.

Wrangell, Alaska.—Killing and torturing members of the tribe having failed to drive away evil spirits that were causing hunger and disease, an Indian in the Liard district of Canada, 500 miles east of here, hanged a dog daily until he had put to death his whole sled team.

This was one of the tales that trickled through to Wrangell by means of gold prospectors after a party of Canadian royal mounted police passed through here recently bound for Vancouver, British Columbia, with five Indians accused of torturing to death Moccasin, a lad of seventeen. The boy was said to have been buried while he still breathed.

Legends that the Indians of the wilds of northern British Columbia and southern Yukon commonly tortured and slew fellow tribesmen for being friends and companions of injurious spirits have long been common among prospectors.

Killed for Witchcraft.
Five months ago Frank Bass, factor for the Hudson's Bay company at Fort Liard, Yukon territory, reported to Canadian authorities that Big Aleck, a Cree Indian living on the Mackenzie river, had told him that nomad Indians from the Nelson river, in British Columbia, had murdered a boy accused of witchcraft. The crime was placed at 40 miles south of Fort Liard.

Superintendent Knight of the royal police, stationed at Vancouver, sent a patrol to investigate. The Liard district was reached after traveling hundreds of miles on foot with pack dogs and navigating the swift lower Liard river by canoe. Big Aleck, when found, repudiated the story. The party of three policemen, commanded by Inspector T. V. Sandys-Wunsch, camped near the suspected Indians.

Patently studying the territory, the investigators came on a hole in which they found the body of a boy with his hands tied behind him.

Girl Pleads for Life.
After that confessions from the Indians came easily. These were to the effect that Edy, a squaw, had suspended Moccasin head downward from a sapling to drive away evil spirits, after Big Aleck had dreamed that the lad was a sorcerer. A girl, Lucy, found Moccasin hanging there and begged that he be cut down. Lucy said that the lad was alive when put into the hole, but other Indians asserted that he was killed first by hitting him on the head with a rock.

The police arrested Edy, her three brothers, Dan, Jimmy and Clem, and Big Aleck, and took them to Fort Liard. At a hearing there the inspector, a magistrate, decided that the prisoners should go to Vancouver for trial.

The three policemen brought the prisoners out to Wrangell, traveling 1,000 miles on foot and by canoe. No police had been in the Liard district since 1892.

Many Rare Treasures Found in Mesopotamia

Chicago.—The Sumerian founders of ancient Kish, in Mesopotamia, were artisans possessing "skill and knowledge unprecedented among other ancients," in the opinion of members of the Field Museum-Oxford university expedition to that seat of the world's earliest civilization.

D. C. Davies, director of the museum, announced he had received late reports from Prof. S. Langdon, heading the expedition, that "the value and variety of treasures and art works excavated have exceeded all expectations."

"Jewels of exquisite workmanship, finely engraved cylinder seals of inestimable historic value, glazed pottery of unique and rare design and artistic inlay of silver and lapis lazuli are included in these discoveries," said Mr. Davies.

Munich Telephone Chiefs Introduce Novel System

Munich.—"Put a nickel in the slot and hear tonight's opera performance in the State opera house," is the latest Munich slogan. The telephone administration has just opened four opera-hearing halls in Munich suburbs, where long rows of pay telephones wait for customers, eager to hear grand opera for 50 pfennigs.

Telephone subscribers may use their phones at home against a monthly fee for the opera service. When the subscriber who listens to grand opera is wanted by another subscriber, the exchange interrupts the entertainment for the duration of the conversation. The transmission is entirely over wires and has nothing to do with radio. Subscribers who listen to grand opera need no amplifier units and loud talkers as used in the radio field.

British Scientist to Explore Ancient Honduran City

London.—Dr. Gann, archeologist and expert on the Mayan civilization of Honduras and Yucatan, is on his way to Jamaica, whence he will go to British Honduras to explore the ruins of the ancient Mayan city which he and a number of companions discovered early this year. Dr. Gann hopes to find inscribed on jade or painted pottery a date prior to 63 B. C., the earliest Mayan date at present known.

COMMUNITY CENTER WORK

Women of City Will Form Circle of Friends of Caney Creek.

Extension Worker Spoke Before Chamber of Commerce and Business and Professional Women's Club—Plan to Help Unfortunates Help Themselves.

Miss Elizabeth Keen, extension worker for the Caney Creek Community Centers, Incorporated, spoke on Tuesday evening before the chamber of commerce and the Business and Professional Women's club, and said in part:

"When Mrs. Alice Lloyd went to Kentucky from Boston for her health, in 1916, she had no idea that the Caney Creek Community Center would be the result of her trip.

"Early in 1917 the first shack was completed and Mrs. Lloyd, with her typewriter moved into it. 'Humpty Joab' had made an appeal to her to start her work just twelve miles from where she originally went. He gave her the piece of ground and helped to build the house.

"This 'City on a Hill' has grown from one house to 24. there are now 15 or 18 schools with the system taught at Caney Creek, instead of the inadequate rural school. These boys and girls do not want charity, they want help to help themselves.

"The roads are not roads, but creek beds. The 200,000 children of school age will never be reached if we don't help them now. The fundamental principle of Mrs. Lloyd's idea is to put in a good school system.

"The appeal for financial help is made in the hope that it will awaken the interest of those more fortunate than these mountain children."

The women who usually meet with Mrs. Ed Sensenbrenner for the Community sewing will meet this year on December 10, at 2 p. m. The dolls will be made and a "Circle of friends of Caney Creek" formed. This circle will gather up all the old clothes and shoes, good magazines and books, for Caney children like good reading. Household goods such as bedding, etc., will be most acceptable.

The barrels containing these will be sent about every month. Anything you bring will be a "heaps" o' help" to these mountaineers who are rich in spirit and poor in opportunity.

Don't forget the date—Wednesday, December 10, at 2 p. m. at the chamber of commerce or call Mrs. Sensenbrenner.

Rehearsals Are Progressing Nicely at Parish House - Tickets on Sale.

The Parish house on West Mound street is a very popular place of afternoons and evenings as the rehearsals for the Business and Professional Women's club play "Marcheta" began last Friday afternoon and will continue until the eleventh of this month.

The success of the play is assured, due to the fact that those who are taking part are becoming somewhat more experienced than amateurs. The play itself contains quite a bit of comedy and the members of the different committees are doing some real work to put it over bigger and better than any thing the club has attempted.

The director, Mr. E. M. Thornton, of the Harrington Adams Producing Co., is well pleased with the talent furnished him as well as the hearty co-operation of the members of the club. The principals and choruses are being rapidly whipped into shape and by the time for the first performance, everything will be completed to make "Marcheta" the best home talent show ever presented in Circleville.

Mrs. Roy Davis, chairman of the ticket committee, started the ticket-selling campaign and has placed tickets in hands of every member of the club and many members of the cast. The price of the tickets is $1 and time to have seats reserved will be announced later.

The club considers itself fortunate in securing the services of Miss Abbe Mills Clarke as accompanist.

Religion in Men's Lives.

Let men know that it (religion) is not mere trifling, it is not a thing to be dabbled with for an instant, it is not a thing for a man to convince himself by an argument, and then keep as it were locked in a shell, it is something that is so deep and serious that when a man has once tested it there is no more chance of his going out of it than there is of his going out of the friendship and the love which holds him with its perpetual expression, with the continued, deeper and deeper manifestation of the way in which the living being belongs to him who has a right to his life. - Phillips Brooks.

Relic of Long-Past Age.

While cutting peat in the Leithen headwater area, the shepherds unearthed a horn, which may have belonged to Bos primigenius or Bos longifrons, the wild oxen that roamed over Britain from the glacial age to near historic times. It was found at a depth of four feet from the surface, and the shepherds also averred that there was a small patch of brown hair attached, which is quite probable, as the peat would act as a preservative. —London Mail.

RURAL HEALTH WORK REVIEWED

Federal Service Co-Operates in Protective Measures in 16 States.

Washington.—The tremendous good accomplished by the United States public health service in co-operation with county and state agencies, in protecting rural United States against disease, is shown by a review of the work just issued by L. L. Lumsden, surgeon of the health service. The review covers the fiscal year ended June 30, 1924, and applies to work in rural sanitation which is conducted in support of and as a part of whole-time local health service. It does not include all co-operative activities of the service in rural communities. It is shown that the federal service co-operated in demonstration projects in rural health work in 72 counties, in 16 states.

The appropriation for the rural health work of the public health service in the fiscal year 1924 was $50,000. At the termination of the fiscal year 1923, $10,817.82 remained unexpended. Thus, $39,182.18 was available for the support of activities in the fiscal year 1924. Of this sum, $43,584.52 was expended in allotments for co-operative projects in counties and $4,463.55 was expended for administration, supervision of local projects, and special studies of the problem of rural sanitation. The unexpended balance of the total sum available was included in allotments to some of the co-operative projects which, because of local circumstances, could not be completed by the end of the fiscal year. The reviewer cites the following accomplishments in the year:

Some Accomplishments.

"Public lectures presenting the principles and details of sanitation to more than 276,000 persons. More than 155,000 sanitary inspections of premises, with explanation of findings to occupants or owners of the properties. Physical examination of over 192,500 school children, of whom over 100,000 were found to have incapacitating physical defects, with notification of parents or guardians of defects found. Thirty-seven thousand three hundred and sixty-four recorded treatments of physical defects among school children, brought about by written notification to parents or guardians, making available proper clinical facilities and other activities of the county or district health departments. Treatments to correct iodine deficiency administered to 9,514 persons in epidemic goiter districts.

"Forty-seven thousand two hundred and two visits to homes of cases of communicable disease to advise and show the afflicted households how to prevent spread of the infections. Five thousand nine hundred and eight visits by health nurses to prenatal cases to advise with and assist expectant mothers in carrying out hygienic and physiological measures making for healthy mothers and healthy babies. Twenty-one thousand and two hundred and thirty-one infants and children of pre-school age examined and over 30,000 home visits by health nurses or health officers to demonstrate hygienic measures for the promotion of the health and the protection of the lives of infants. Thirty-one thousand eight hundred and thirty-six persons inoculated for protection against typhoid fever.

One thousand three hundred and twenty persons treated effectively for relief from hookworm disease and for the prevention of the spread of the infection. Marked reduction in the spread of malaria in hundreds of localities, with an aggregate population of several hundred thousand.

Work of Sanitation.

Four thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine homes connected for the first time with sanitary sewers. Four thousand nine hundred and fifty-two homes provided with safe water supplies in place of contaminated water supplies. Radical improvement of 432 public milk supplies.

"Such results indicate that the plan of the work is both comprehensive and effective," continues Doctor Lumsden. "They mean prevention of human illness, promotion of human health, conservation of economic resources. They stand in importance to our national welfare second to no other results obtainable from equivalent investment of public funds.

"The total expenditure for the support of the 72 local projects was $583,791.73 in the fiscal year 1924. Of this sum an aggregate of $465,185.06 was provided from state, county and municipal governmental sources; $75,022.12 came from civic sources, such as local health associations, local Red Cross chapters and the International Health board, and $43,584.52 came from the rural sanitation funds of the public health service. Thus this investment of federal funds was met with odds of over 12 to 1. The proportion of the expenses covered with funds from local sources is significant; it gives some idea of the stimulating effect of the co-operation of the federal government in this vitally important nationwide field."

BUCKEYE CLUB

Joe Dulsky Says "Blues" Has Election Slush Fund.

Interest is running high in the election of officers for the Buckeye Republican club from 3 to 8 p. m. Saturday in the club rooms at Town and High streets, Columbus.

Joe Dulsky, chairman of the campaign committee of the Red ticket, has selected a trio to investigate the alleged "slush fund" of the Blue ticket. "The Blues served grape juice last year," said Dulsky, "while we served only red lemonade and as a result were defeated. Such injustice will not be permitted again. The Blues seem to have plenty of money, while the Reds haven't enough to pay salaries of the campaign committee."

The rival candidates for president and vice president are Charles B. Norris and Atta R. Tingles on the Red ticket and Myron B. Gessaman and Mrs. Viola D. Romans on the Blue.

English Lavender and Mint.

The great secret of English lavender and mint lies in the soil—a light, friable, chalky soil, not often found in a climate congenial to both plants, yet essential to a perfect result. Each, in fact, may be grown with a certain measure of success on hill, in marshland, or meadow, for both are hardy, and, when well rooted, are nearly impervious to drought and frost.

Japanese Idea of Music.

Among the Japanese especially, a directly divine origin is attributed to music. The mythical legend runs that the art was invented by the gods to appease the anger of the sun goddess and to induce her to shine once more upon the earth and upon the other divinities. The melodies which resulted were potent to prevail upon her, and thus was light restored to the world and music and dancing were given for its delight.
